

Avery Dickins de Girón

Assistant Director – Vanderbilt University Center for Latin American Studies

Avery earned a Ph.D. in Anthropology from Vanderbilt in 2008. Her research examines international development programs in Q'eqchi' Maya villages as well as the security guard industry in Guatemala. She teaches VISAGE Guatemala, and her duties at CLAS include grant writing, reporting, budget oversight and faculty relations. She enjoys swimming, cooking, and spending time with her husband Carlos and daughter Lucia.